

THE BELLINGHAM HERALD

Yes you can bring the taste of travel home

By Katie Crowe

McClatchy-Tribune

(MCT)

Ever since the TSA's restrictions on liquids began, the question has been: How do you transport just a bottle or two of wine, spirits or other liquid souvenirs from your destination back to your home sweet home?

BottleWise has the answer. They have a line of products aimed at connoisseurs that ensure the safe transport of up to 1 liter-sized bottles in checked baggage. The company notes on its website, www.bottlewise.net, TSA regulations allow bottles containing up to 5 liters of alcohol between 24-percent and 70-percent proof in checked luggage if it's in a sealable package.

The Rollup wine travel bag, the newest addition to the line - and most affordable at $19.99 each - easily slips into a flat pocket on your bag for the trip out. And for the trip back, the bag features a combination of a padded, insulated sleeve and a liquid-tight liner to keep your bottle - and your clothing - protected until you arrive home to enjoy the taste of your travels.

The BottleWise Rollup comes in four different colors and has a lifetime guarantee.

(c) 2010, McClatchy-Tribune Information Services.

Also seen in:

DailyMe® & newsobserver.com

Kentucky.com™
LEXINGTON HERALD-LEADER